

WEEKLY CRIME REPORT

29th October - 4th November '19

OVERVIEW

The first week of November saw a notable reduction in the number of crime incidents reported across the Country. Our security sources attributed the said reduction to increased patrols and raids by the different security agencies resulting in numerous arrests made in connection to robberies, murders and fraud.

Other than the above, the police service has issued a red alert on the risks of teenagers and youths getting involved in criminal activities while on long holidays. Parents and guardians are advised to ensure that their children are always in a secure environment at any given time following the closure of a majority of schools for the December holidays.

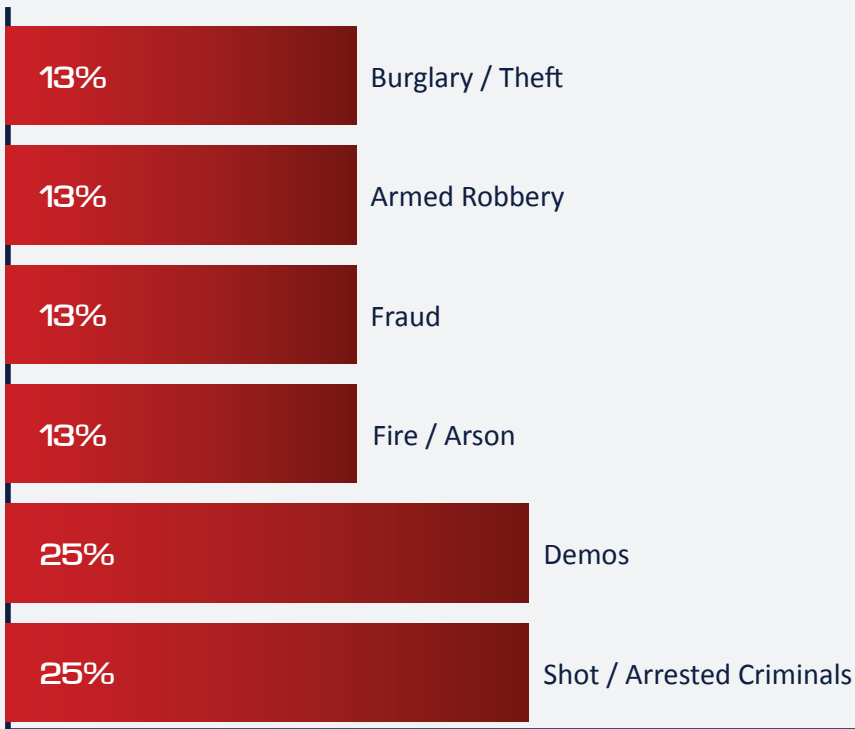

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK NAIROBI

The notable incidents recorded in Nairobi included the following:

- University of Nairobi students on Tuesday disrupted traffic as they protested the death of their colleague who was hit by an ambulance at the gate of the institution along University Way.
- Passengers on Friday night lost their belonging after suspected armed robbers hijacked a bus heading to Donholm and diverted it to Koma Rock road.
- A suspected thug was on Saturday night shot dead in a botched robbery at a building in Matopeni area, Kayole.
- A motor vehicle was on Sunday reported stolen from Parklands in Nairobi.
- A man impersonating the Nairobi County Governor was on Monday arrested at a city hotel where he had gone to allegedly collect Ksh. 80,000 from one of his victim.
- An Administration police officer and an employee of a private security firm were on Monday arrested after they attempted to steal from a bar operator in Obama Estate.
