WEEKLY CRIME REPORT

21st January - 27th January 2020

OVERVIEW

This week's assurance given by the Government to combat contrabands and smuggling businesses in the North Eastern part of the Country will be a vital step towards the war on terror related activities. As the month ends, our security sources have so far noted a considerable decline in the terror-related incidents. We can attribute this decline to the fact that security agencies across the country are on high alert, with instructions to be on the lookout for suspicious characters in social entities and key government premises.

Other than the above, cases of fire incidents continued to be of great concern for a consecutive week with a particular focus on schools. For instance, the burning of a dormitory at Moi Girls School in Mandera for a second time in two weeks prompted the arrests of two teachers who were on duty and two police reservists who were guarding the schools for questioning.
